about Urban Housing Solutions

Urban Housing Solutions is Nashville, Tennessee’s largest nonprofit affordable housing provider.

Founded in 1991 by Rusty Lawrence, UHS develops and manages attractive, accessible apartment communities for Nashville’s homeless, low income, and workforce populations. With a focus on energy efficiency and a commitment to community development, UHS both constructs new buildings and transforms aging properties. With around 50 employees and a $13 million budget, UHS remains dedicated to providing affordable homes in supportive communities.

Beyond its 1,600+ apartments in 36 properties, UHS has helped over 8,000 Nashvillians in compassionate, forward-thinking ways. In partnership with other nonprofits and government organizations, UHS offers transportation access, medical and mental health support, substance abuse recovery, and civic services. Through this continuum of care, UHS seeks to positively impact families and enhance Nashville neighborhoods.

Nashville’s affordable housing crisis ... and solution

Nashville is one of the fastest-growing cities in the US, with over three hundred new residents arriving every week. Offering an abundance of culture, a temperate climate, and a distinct quality of life, Nashville and its thriving suburbs appeal to a diverse mix of college students, young adults, growing families, musicians, retirees, and workforce jobseekers. And, while the city is more affordable than many metro areas, its increasingly competitive housing market has become a financial burden for many locals.

Today, too many people in Nashville lack a safe, stable and affordable place to call home. Anyone earning less than 60 percent of the city’s median income – that is, an individual earning less than $42,000 a year – now struggles to find and maintain a Nashville residence while providing for their household’s most basic needs. Reports from the mayor’s office predict the affordable housing shortage will rise to nearly 31,000 units by 2025. These startling numbers will only change with aggressive action to expand homeless, low-income, and workforce housing options.

Urban Housing Solutions is committed to helping solve Nashville’s affordable housing crisis. UHS plays a vital role in the strength and success of Nashville neighborhoods by partnering with individuals, families, and businesses to address unmet housing needs. Providing affordable homes in supportive communities, UHS is more than the buildings it develops. UHS is a community advocate: connecting homeless, vulnerable, and underemployed residents with accessible housing and critical services. See the UHS 2022 Impact Report

Office Location: Nashville, Tennessee

Urban Housing Solutions serves greater Nashville, with an office located in an 1890 brick house in East Nashville’s Historic Edgefield neighborhood.

The Chief Operations Officer position requires a regular in-person presence in the office. Urban Housing Solutions supports hybrid work, allowing one day per week of work-from-home for new hires after an initial ramp-up period, and potentially more remote flexibility after the first year of employment. The COO job also requires driving around greater Nashville as needed to visit properties and engage with onsite staff, contractors, and partners.

This is a national search, and Urban Housing Solutions is ready to offer financial assistance for relocation.
